

The Chow Chew Show

of Chloe Don't 's

curated by Valeriya Malinova

The young French artist Chloe Don't, lives and works in Brussels. She is presenting her new work at the P. J. O. Gallery.

Born in Paris, living surrounded by graphic art, she continues to create her own universe: full of humor, irony, experiences and memories taken from her childhood. She has built her own artistic world in two main directions : photo collages and an artist's book...and even board games.

In the present exhibition we see these two lines of Chloe's work. We can participate, play and live a new experience.

Food ? Which food ? A plate ? Should I put it on the table ? Non! Actually, you can play with it ! Like Chloe plays with her meal, she puts her portrait on a carrot, she uses the famous pictures of Hollywood stars, she mixes them up, showing us a different way to see our everyday meal. Memory games with food , a "head in the hole" photo shoot, a comfortable zone for looking at and reading books, and even a kitchen zone for tasting the famous "Gnagnagna Pie, November 3rd"

You are invited to live an experience with a big printing machine, working it live, it can print your silhouette and with the setting "printing strong" you can put your head in a bowl of pumpkin soup...
